

SmartTime™

A Smarter Approach to Access Time Management

Supervisors have their hands full. They are tasked with managing, tracking, and facilitating field work activities and are always looking for ways to maximize their time. SmartTime captures key site work activity data, including labor, production, equipment utilized and more, improving all facets of a project.

At Work For You®

› SmartTime™ | Real-time field labor and productivity entry, on the go

Through SmartTime's mobile and web-based elements, field teams can document field work activity seamlessly from the start of the day through the end. By providing real-time data to the project team, leaders can make more educated decisions about effort expended, work performed and more.

› Benefits of using real-time data include:

- › Integration with core systems, providing up-to-date current information for employees, tasks, activities, equipment
- › Enables supervisor to quickly and easily create new reports, edit existing documents, and receive approvals for submittals
- › Staying current with authorized work activities
- › Quick access to the status of work activity submittals from the field
- › Improved accuracy and reduction of costly double-entry
- › Increased productivity and optimization for field teams

In addition to our time management expertise, BrandSafway provides the widest range of access and industrial services in the industry.
